Singing with Marcia

Stacy Thomas

STUDENTS got to sing at the top of their lungs alongside Marcia Hines for the annual Music: Count Us In event.

One of St Christopher's Catholic Primary School year 3 classes travelled to Taronga Zoo to be part of the live feed across the nation last Wednesday.

The Holsworthy students were among the 500,000 participating students from 2100 schools nationwide.

The event is about bringing teachers, parents, students and the music industry together, to sing the same song at the same time, across the country.

Students spent months rehearsing the song. And on the day it was sung in classrooms, arts centres, parks and beaches, and Parliament House. Each year one event is live streamed. This year it was at Taronga Zoo.

Music: Count Us In is run by Music Australia and supported by the Federal Government through the Department of Education.
